Arthur Stanley Eddington

by A. VIBERT DOUGLAS

'It is no easy task', said Nature, 'to write a biography of a man of science, especially if the work is to attract both the specialist and the layman. . . . The author of this excellent book was formerly one of Eddington's research students. The task has clearly been a labour of love. Professor Douglas has achieved a nice balance between the story of the man and the story of his scientific work'. With 15 half-tone plates.

The De Moneta of Nicholas Oresme

edited by CHARLES JOHNSON

An account of the theory and practice of coinage in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries—the theory being presented by Nicholas Oresme's De Moneta, and the practice by the treatise of William de Turnemire, Master of the Mint in 1279, and by other documents. The introduction gives a brief sketch of the history of coinage in England from the conquest to the fourteenth century.

Human Types

by R. W. FIRTH

This new and revised edition of Human Types presents the outline, main problems and conclusions of modern social anthropology. It contains many examples from field research and an excellent bibliography; it should serve as a valuable introduction for the general reader as well as a text book. Much new material has been embodied and there are 14 half-tone plates.
